

RPC Video Partners with Sonic Foundry to Offer Yet Another High-tech Solution

RPC Video has partnered with Sonic Foundry to provide you with Mediasite, a rich media recorder. Mediasite is a breakthrough Web communications solution for recording, distributing, archiving and viewing media presentations. It is the only "real-time" presentation system that allows organizations to readily and routinely capture and share presentations without the time and expense of authoring or producing.

Mediasite is easy for presenters to use. Its unique design simplifies the entire process of creating and sharing presentations on the Web. Presenters do not have to change the way they prepare or present. They simply plug in and the system does all the work.

There is no authoring required. Mediasite presenters can choose to communicate live or create interactive content for on-demand use. There are two capture windows. One window can provide video and audio of the presenter while the other window displays material being discussed. Presentations are automatically captured, encoded, synchronized and made available to view through your website, anywhere using a current Web browser.

Mediasite is the only Web communications tool with the ability to capture and integrate a wide range of content and seamlessly integrate it into a single presentation. Smart boards, document cameras, digital photographs, computer feeds, VCR and DVD signals can be captured during any part of the presentation.

This product is suitable for any audiovisual environment. So whether you are a school or corporation, please contact RPC Video to set up an appointment to discuss this product and schedule a demonstration.
